SUPPLEMENTAL----CRIMINAL JUSTICE TRAINING CENTER
Problem Solving Workshop:
Content: Moderated and guided by the Academy staff, specific supervisory problems experienced by participants and submitted in advance will be presented and discussed by class as a whole. These will include discipline, counseling, and performance evaluation. Most commonly experienced problems area will serve as a focus. Emphasis will be placed on development by the group of practical, effective solutions to the problems.
General Objective: Participants will develop practical solutions or approaches to solving "real life" problems frequently experienced by police supervisors.

Chiefs’ Panel/Student Discussion:
Content: Panel consisting of four selected police chief executives will present their perspective of the role and most essential duties of contemporary police supervisors. Following a brief presentation, panel members will engage in open discussion with class participants concerning material presented. Emphasis will be placed, not on theoretical role of supervisors, but practical day-to-day tasks which supervisors are called upon to perform.
General Objectives: Participants will develop an understanding of, and appreciation for, their role as police supervisors as that role is generally perceived by police chief executives.

Sergeant’s Role in Management -- Summary
Content: Discuss accepted role of sergeants within police agencies. Provides a summary of points made in chiefs’ panel discussion. Provides focus for classes which follow, discussing duties and responsibilities for police supervisors.
General Objectives: Participants will gain an understanding of their overall role within contemporary police agencies.

Supervisor’s Role in Unusual Situations (field problems) (8 Hours) Content: Instructor will present material and initiate dialogue with class members regarding the following topics:
   a. Officer involved shootings
   b. Pursuits
   c. Complaints regarding police misconduct
Class will emphasize general, accepted procedures and techniques for handling such incidents. Specific rules and regulations will not be presented by the instructor as they may conflict with department policies of participating agencies. Emphasis will be placed on sergeant’s role in handling such incidents.
General Objective: Participants through discussion and comparison with procedures of other agencies, will develop skills in handling certain unusual incidents from a supervisory perspective.

Course Evaluation and Discussion
Content: Participants will complete required P.O.S.T. Course Evaluation form. Class members will then discuss, candidly, in an informal setting, with Course Coordinator and members of the training staff their observations, perceptions and opinions as to course quality and content.
General Objective: To provide the Program with timely, objective, detailed feedback concerning the relevance of the program to police supervisors. Information obtained will be used in considering curricula modification for future course offerings.
