COURSE ASSIGNMENTS:

Out-of-class Assignments

When appropriate to their modular course, students will be assigned to read essays for analysis of content or as models for their own writing assignments and to study English handbook lessons. They may also be required to use audio, video and computer lessons to enhance their understanding of standard English conventions. Finally, they may be asked to attend Writing Center seminars on topics included in their modular plan.

Writing Assignments

Activities will vary according to student remediation needs but will include generating sentences, paragraphs and short essays; completing exercises on punctuation, usage and sentence construction; and ongoing consultation with instructor for diagnosis and evaluation of completed work (both classroom and Writing Center assignments).

Reading Assignments

Students will be required to spend an average of one hour a week completing the assignments in the modular course. Students may be either referred by a classroom instructor or be self-referred. In either case, they will work with a Writing Center instructor for diagnosis of remediation needs and design of the modular assignment. Components of the course will be drawn from the Course Scope and Content on the previous pages.
METHODS OF STUDENT EVALUATION:
Written Assignments
Problem Solving Exercises
Skills Demonstration

Demonstration of Critical Thinking:
Students will learn to apply the concepts of standard English usage to all college writing assignments. Moreover, they will develop critical thinking and problem solving skills in approaching writing assignments and determining the best method of organization and presentation.

Required Writing, Problem Solving, Skills Demonstration:
Activities will vary according to student remediation needs but will include generating sentences, paragraphs and short essays; completing exercises on punctuation, usage and sentence construction; and ongoing consultation with instructor for diagnosis and evaluation of completed work (both classroom and Writing Center assignments).
